Joan Bassett

Joan, whose friendly manner attracts everyone, has been a member of Dramatic Club, Good Writers' Club, and Girls' Voice Class for three years. She has been the manager of the basketball team and has taken part in class games. She portrayed the part of maid in the Senior play very well. She has also been the Manager of the Lunch Counter. We know that she will be successful in her chosen profession. Good Luck, Joan.

Thelma Brackett "Brack"

"Brack", who has been very active during her high school years, has been a member of Voice Class and Glee Club, Good Writers' Club and Dramatic Club. She also had a part in the Senior play. She is the treasurer of Student Council and has been chosen as a Graduation Speaker. "Brack" has been one of our star basketball players for many years. She plans to go to school, where, with her high marks and pleasing personality, we know she will be a success.

Wayne Farr

Wayne, who has been very active during his high school career, has played basketball and baseball and has been manager of both. He has also been a member of the Glee Club, Athletic Club, Science Club, and Photography Club. He has been class president twice and is president of the Student Council this year. Good luck, Wayne, in your future years.

Daniel Foskett "Dan"

"Dan", who is one of the most studious members of the class, has participated in Photography Club, Dramatic Club, and Boys' Voice Class. He has been on the Honor Roll for four years and consequently received the honor of being a Graduation Speaker. As he was voted the best student, we know that he will be a success at Clark College, where he has been accepted for next September. Good Luck, "Dan".

Paul Francis Granger

Paul is one of the most active senior boys, having been a member of the Dramatic Club for four years, Voice Class and Glee Club for three years. Paul also managed the basketball and baseball teams for one year and played basketball for two years. He also played class basketball thru-out high school. Paul had a leading role in the Senior play and has achieved the honor of being chosen a Graduation Speaker. With his pleasing personality, we are sure he will be a success through-out his college days at Holy Cross where, he has been accepted for next September. Good Luck, Paul

Owen Keenan

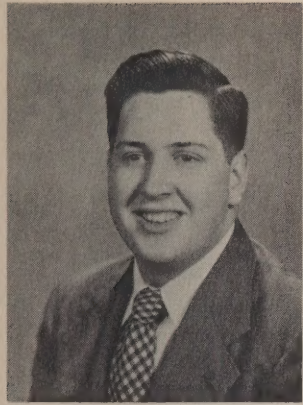

Owen is noted for his ready smile, and as the best sport in our class. He was also in Pre-Drivers' Club. We know by his cheerfulness and perseverance he will be a success.

Walter John Lojko "Walt"

"Walt", during his high school career, has been an active member of our class. He has been basketball manager and a member of the baseball team for two years, and in the musical department, he has been in Voice Class and Glee Club for three years. Walt is one of the best-natured fellows around and has a keen sense of humor. We know Walt will get to the top someday. Good Luck, "Walt".

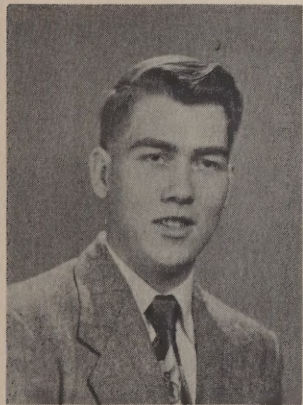

Beatrice Mann "Beaty"

"Beaty", who is one of the wittiest members of our class, is seldom seen without a smile. Beatrice has been a member of Voice Class, Dramatic Club, and Glee Club for four years. She is a Student Council member and has been a class officer for many years. With her friendly manner, we are sure she will succeed in the years ahead. Good Luck, Beatrice.

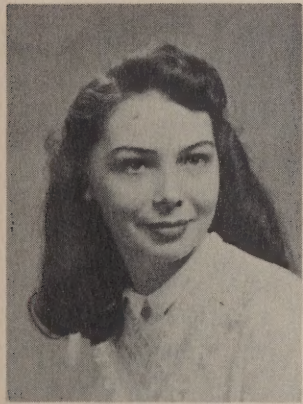

Harry Ellsworth McCloud "Mac"

Good natured "Mac" has served on the paper staff for two years. During his senior year, he was manager of our baseball team. He also had a part in the senior play. He has been a member of Science Club, Photography Club, and Pre-Drivers' Club. With his good sense of humor, we are sure he will be a success in anything he chooses to do. Good Luck, "Mac".

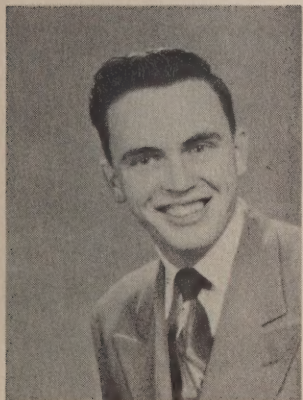

Herbert Wilson McIntire "Herb"

"Herb", one of the most popular members of our class, has been a member of Voice Class and Glee Club for two years, and has participated in Class Basketball. Voted the boy with the best personality, Herb has a ready smile and an agreeable nature. We know his ability to get along with people will make him a success in his chosen work. Good Luck, "Herb".

Joyce Morang

Whenever you see a girl with long black hair, you'll know that's Joyce. She is one of the most popular girls in our Senior Class. She has been active in Dramatic and Good Writers' Clubs, and also had a part in the Senior play. She has been a member of Voice Class and Glee Club for many years. Good Luck, Joyce, in whatever profession you select.

William Richard Mortell "Buster"

When you see a tall grin with long legs, you can be sure that it's Buster - the easy-going member of the class. Buster has livened up affairs since the beginning of his high school life, and was voted Most Popular Boy. He has been in the Photography Club, Athletic Club, and Science Club. He has been active in Class Basketball and Glee Club. Good Luck in your chosen profession; we know you'll be a success.

Martin G. Peterson, Jr. "Pete"

"Pete" has been an active member in Glee Club for four years and has been in Voice Class three years. Also Pete has been in Photography, Science and Dramatic Clubs. He also has played in class basketball. In the Senior class play, Pete did a grand job. When Pete finishes high school, he will probably go into the regular Navy, as he is now in the Reserve Navy. Best of Luck, "Pete".

Vivian Poulin, "Viv".

"Viv", whose ready smile is familiar to all, is one of the most jovial members of the class. She has belonged to Pre-Drivers' Club, Dramatic Club, Sewing Club, Glee Club, Voice Class, and has been president of Athletic Club. She participated in the Senior play. With her ambition we are sure that she will go a long way. Our best to you, "Viv".

Robert Raymond Rice, "Bob".

"Bob", one of the quieter members of our class, was on the honor roll during his Senior year. He has served on paper staff for two years. He has also been active in Science Club and Photography Club. As he was noted the most reliable, we are all sure he will succeed. Good Luck, "Bob".

Helen Rosbury

Helen, one of the prettiest members of the class, is always cooperative and agreeable. She has participated in Glee Club, Good Writers' Club, Dramatic Club, and Voice Class. She has also been the Assistant Manager of Lunch Counter. With her good looks and personality, we know she will enjoy a successful future. Good Luck, Helen.

Elizabeth Sahlin "Liz"

"Liz", who has been with our class for only two years is one of our most studious members. She has been a member of Good Writers' Club and Athletic Club, and she was also in the Senior play. We know Elizabeth will succeed in the profession of her choice, especially since she carries all A's. Good Luck, "Liz".

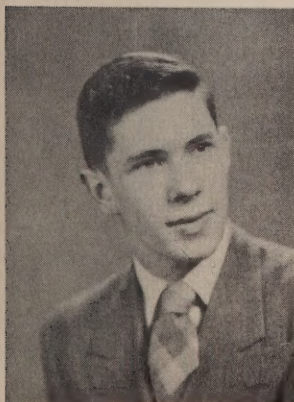

Barbara Stevens, "Barb".

"Barb", one of the most reliable and studious members, has participated in Pre-Drivers' Club, Dramatic Club, Good Writers' Club and Athletic Club. She was chosen as a D.A.R. representative, the treasurer of the class, and a Graduation Speaker. She played an important role in the Senior play. With Barbara's Honor marks and friendly personality she is sure to succeed. Good Luck, "Barb".

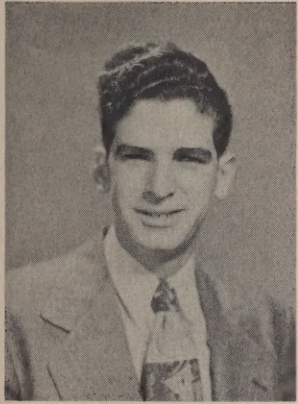

Eleanor Stevens

Eleanor, who is one of the quiet girls of the class, has been a member of Voice Class for four years, has taken part in the Senior play. She also has been a member of Pre-Drivers', Good Writers', and Athletic Clubs. We know by the diamond on her finger that Eleanor plans to be married. The best of luck, Eleanor.

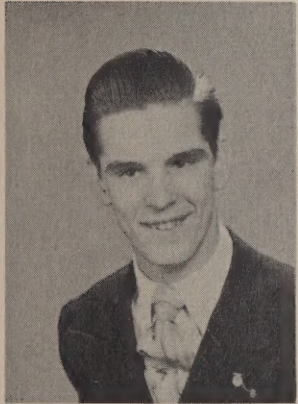

Philip Stevens "Phil"

"Phil", who has served as a class officer many times, is president of the Senior Class. He has been very active in basketball and baseball. He has also been a member of the Dramatic Club, Prize Speaking Groups and the F.F.A. We are proud that he won First Prize of $120.00 at the Massachusetts F.F.A. Prize Speaking Contest. Good Luck, Phil.

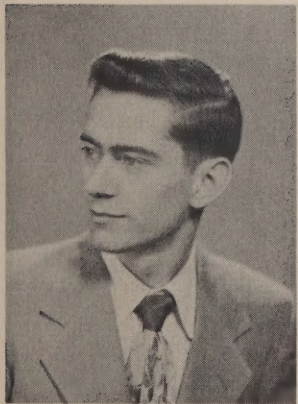

Francis P. Thibaudeau "Tib"

"Tib", has been active in Athletic, Science, and Photography Clubs. He is well-known for his pleasing smile and wavy hair. We all know "Tib" will be very successful in whatever he chooses to do. Good Luck, "Tib".

Henry John White

Henry, a dependable person, has been very active in high school. He has been in Science Club, and Athletic Club. He has also done a great deal of work in F.F.A. group, where he is a very outstanding member. We feel that Henry will be successful in his career of farming. Good Luck, Henry.

Wesley James Wolfenden "Wes".

"Wes", the most agreeable member of our class, has been a member of Photography Club, Athletic Club and Science Club. He has also been a member of Boys' Voice Class and Glee Club for two years and has also participated in Class Basketball. "Wes", by his ready wit has brought much enjoyment to our class in the past years. We know that with his pleasing personality he will be successful in whatever he undertakes. Good Luck, "Wes".

CLASS HISTORY

It was September 1945 that forty-three pupils entered the seventh grade room at Charlton High. We were greeted by Miss Blanchett, who was to be our advisor for the first part of our life at this memorable school.

Our first task was to elect class officers, with the following results: Clara Gates, president; Paul Granger, vice president; Wayne Farr, secretary; and Beatrice Mann, treasurer.

The first school activity in which we participated was the Junior Play Contest, at which we presented "Spare The Rod". The cast included Martin Peterson, Clara Gates, Beatrice Mann, Annette Mongeon, and Paul Granger. All in the cast tried their best, but they were up against superior talent.

In the Magazine Contest, our class won the $5.00 cash award from Mr. Cheney. We were also able to keep our 90% standard in our first Victory Loan Drive.

When September '46 came around, we found our class had diminished slightly, but we welcomed two new students, Helen Rosbury and Owen Keenan. We settled down to work under the guidance of Mrs. Madaus.

At the Junior Play Contest this year, we presented "Ten Per Cent Tommy", with a cast of thirteen pupils and were fortunate in winning the cup.

Again we participated in the Magazine Contest, and we were proud of Paul Granger, who was second highest salesman and received a radio as a prize for his superior salesmanship.

Philip Stevens was the only pupil who won the opportunity to speak in the annual Prize Speaking Contest.

Those on the Honor Roll were Paul Granger, Clara Gates, Thelma Brackett, Barbara Stevens, and Herbert McIntire.

Our first year of high school began under the leadership of Mr. Maloney, with whom we had a very good time. Our class now consisted of only thirty-five members.

The class officers for this year were as follows: president, Wayne Farr; vice-president, Herbert McIntire; secretary, Beatrice Mann; and treasurer, Walter Lojko.

For the annual play contest, we presented "Junior's Mustache", in which the following characters took part: Philip Stevens, Herbert McIntire, Martin Peterson, Joyce Morang, Joan Bassett, Annette Mongeon, and Beatrice Mann.

We were fortunate to have Paul Granger represent us in the three-act Dramatic Club Play, "Spring Green".

This year, we went to Worcester to see the "Freedom Train." Although we had to wait a long time to get into the train, our time proved to be very profitably spent.

When June came, we found ourselves at the halfway mark in Charlton High, with only three more years to go.

September 1948 began an important year for the Sophomores, now numbering thirty-two. We were sorry to lose Norman Dubuque, who joined the Air Force, but were pleased to welcome Thomas Kerr and Phyllis Lucas.

With Mrs. Fiske, as our capable leader, we began our most successful year. The first event for us was the winning of the Senior Play Contest, with the religious drama-"The Bishop's Candlesticks." The members of the cast were Edward Stearns, Paul Granger, Annette Mongeon, Beatrice Mann, and Phillip Stevens. This was surely a play which few classes will ever equal.

The next highlight was the winning of the Magazine Contest. We brought in nearly $800.00 and secured about $50.00 for the class treasury. We were especially proud of Herbert McIntire, high salesman for our class and school, who brought in $125.00. As a reward Mrs. Fiske took us all to the Ice Follies in Boston, where we truly had a wonderful time.

During the April vacation, we sponsored a Record Hop, with Annette Mongeon as general chairman. We made a small profit and had a very good time.

Honor Roll students for this year were Thomas Kerr, with highest honors, and Paul Granger, Barbara Stevens, Daniel Foskett, and Herbert McIntire, who all carried honor marks.

We entered our Junior year with twenty-five members, and Mrs. Hammond, as our conscientious advisor. We welcomed one new student namely, Elizabeth Sahlin.

The class officers chosen this year were as follows: president, Wayne Farr; vice-president, Paul Granger; secretary, Beatrice Mann; and treasurer, Annette Mongeon.

Again we were fortunate in winning the Magazine Contest. We brought in $315.00 and secured $47.00 for our class treasury. We were once again proud of Paul Granger, high salesman for our class and school, as he sold $85.00 worth of magazines.

We also sold candy and taffy for the benefit of the Junior Prom Fund.

Philip Stevens and Paul Granger played in Boys' Basketball, with William Mortell as manager, and Walter Lojko as his assistant.

Our most important event and true high light of the year was, of course, our Junior Prom, which was held May 12, with Russ Cole's Orchestra furnishing the music. The hall was beautifully decorated as a garden in the class colors, crimson and silver. The class flower is the white rose. Patrons and patronesses for the Prom were Superintendent and Mrs. Joseph Burgess, Principal and Mrs. H. Lea Mushroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brackett. The grand march was led by Wayne Farr and Beatrice Mann.

Honor Roll students for this year were Thelma Brackett, Barbara Stevens, Elizabeth Sahlin, and Daniel Foskett.

When September 1950 finally came, it was quite evident that we were Seniors. We started this year with twenty-three members under the supervision of Mr. Berube.

The class officers chosen for this year were as follows: president, Philip Stevens; vice-president, Paul Granger; secretary, Beatrice Mann; and treasurer, Barbara Stevens.

We raised money for our class treasury in various ways. First, we had two paper drives, with Robert Rice as chairman, one in the fall and another in the spring, which netted us nearly $250.00. We sold Christmas Cards, and we sponsored, with Wayne Farr as general chairman, the "First Annual Senior Supper", followed by a dance, which gave us a profit of $100.

For our Senior Play we presented the comedy, "The Whole Town's Talking", in which every member participated. We made a good profit, and the entire audience seemed to enjoy greatly the many humorous incidents.

During April, we went to New York for our three day class trip. The chaperones were Mr. Berube, Mrs. Fiske, Mrs. Hammond, and Mrs. Madaus. We all had a "swell" time on this educational pleasure trip.

The commencement speakers for the class of 1951 are as follows: Thelma Brackett, Barbara Stevens, Paul Granger, and Daniel Foskett, who had high marks for four years and were prominent in school activities.

The Honor Roll students for this year are as follows: Thelma Brackett, Barbara Stevens, Helen Rosbury, Elizabeth Sahlin, Robert Rice, and Daniel Foskett.

We, the class of 1951, sincerely appreciate the help given us during our six years at Charlton High School.

Respectfully submitted,
Robert Rice,
Senior

CLASS PROPHECY

Today is June 7th; the year is 1961, and I, Herbert McIntire, am in my office at the great new Electrical Experimental Station near New York City. I, and my colleague, Daniel Foskett, have been working on a modern electrical ray, which will grow a great new crop of hair on the heads of the poor unfortunates, who have been neglected by nature. We have been told that, if this ray works, we will be in line for the National Award for "Notable Research on Behalf of Mankind."

The telephone rings; and when I answer it, I find that it is my old friend, Walter Lokjo. Walt is now a prominent criminal lawyer and prosecuting attorney for our fair Bay State. He says that he has a very baffling case before him and wishes me to come over right away. Always willing to be of service, if I can, I ask Dan to take over, and I take a cab to the business section.

After running the gamut of receptionists and secretaries, I finally reach Walt's private office, and whom do I see seated there, but Owen Keenan, an old classmate of mine. Owen tells me that he is in a very baffling case, he has founded a famous concern that has been doing very well until recently. When I ask him the name of the concern he replies, "It is Keenan's Advice to The Lovelorn." This is a bit of a surprise to me, so I ask him what kind of difficulty he is having. He answers that he has advised a girl to play hard-to-get with a fellow, and instead of falling in line, the cad has gone off and married another girl. Now the girl is suing Owen for a lost love.

As this seems to be quite a serious problem, I suggest that the three of us step out and get something to eat, and over a cup of coffee we will think of a solution. Walt remarks that he knows just the place, a new restaurant down the street. He also says that there is an exceptional floor show there.

As we enter, I notice the two bouncers, standing on each side of the door. They look familiar and after a second look, I discern they are Wayne Farr and Ellsworth McCloud. They are dressed in bright blue uniforms, and I notice something which looks suspiciously like brass knuckles in their side pockets. After extracting a promise from Owen that he won't start anything, they point out a corner table where we can easily view the show.

As we sit down, the master of ceremonies announces that the "Charltoners" will do the next number. When they come on stage Walt prophesies that we shall recognize them. We surely do. They are our own Eleanor and Barbara Stevens, and Elizabeth Sahlin, whose dance - we all agree is sensational.

Walt remarks that the next show will be done by some more of our classmates that call themselves the Music Makers. Thelma Brackett, who has been called one of the world's best pianists, plays the piano, and Phil Stevens and Paul Granger, who are billed as the two top crooners of the nation, sang their latest hit, "Murkin Blues."

As we leave the restaurant, Owen tells Walt to get in contact, with his client and tell her, that he will buy her a new automobile, and if she follows his advice, he will guarantee her another lover. Walt leaves for his office, and Owen and I begin to look for a good place to get a new car.

We notice a sign that reads "The Beautiful New Rocket, The Fastest Thing on Wheels." We enter the office and are greeted by, "Yes, Gentlemen, what can I do for you? Want to buy a car? Well, step right this way. We've got just the thing for you, it only costs $8000. It'll do two hundred miles without trying." When the man pauses for breath, I realize that this super-salesman is none other than Wesley Wolfenden.

He takes us through the shop and shows us a variety of new cars. As we pass one car that is being repaired, a grease blackened face shouts, "Hey, Lon, where's the other set of wrenches? You guessed it; it is none other than "Buster" Mortell. Wes tells us that Bill is his best grease-monkey.

I leave Owen to make the arrangements for the car and start uptown, where I buy a paper and turn to the sport page; and there in large bold type I read, "Judges in Dilemma." Reading further, I read "Jumpin Joyce Morang" and "Battlin Beaty Mann" are both undefeated in their wrestling careers. Unless they meet in a title match, they will both hold the title." Just below this article in the racing section, I notice the words, "New World's Record Set." Those Two American Aces have done it again! "Flamin Francis" Thibaudeau and "Rollin Robert Rice" have broken all previous records by piloting their "61" Rockets over the Arizona track, at an average of 4,348 miles per hour.

Since I had seen so many of my old classmates that day, I determine that I shall visit the others before the day is over; so, when I arrive back at my office, I call my old friend, Henry White, who is the president of the Agricultural Division of information for all F.F.A. members East of the Mississippi, and I ask him if he can spare some time that afternoon, so that we can get in touch with some more of our classmates. He is more than willing, and replies that he will be right over.

He meets me down on the corner; and, after exchanging greetings, we decide to hail a cab- and go to the circus, which had just come to town.

As we enter the cab, we immediately notice that our driver is a woman, and imagine our astonishment when we see that it is none other than Vivian Poulin, who informs us that she has just driven Martin Peterson to the U.S. Naval Base. We also learn that "Pete" is now the captain of a sub-chaser and that he is in line for an even higher promotion soon.

After a never to be forgotten ride which practically rendered us incapable of movement, verbal or otherwise, we arrive at the circus grounds. The show is stupendous, as the two stars of the performance are our own Charlton Girls, Helen Rosbury, and Joan Bassett. Joan rides a bicycle along a tightrope that stretches through the air 125 feet above the ground; while Helen stands on Joan's shoulders and does a juggling act with four of her own home grown watermelons.

After the show is over, Henry and I invite girls out for a snack so we may reminisce about school days at C.H.S. and we come to the conclusion that you can never tell what you may become, but you can be happy during the process. Then, I go home that night, happy in the knowledge that I have spent a wonderful day, visiting with my old friends.

Respectfully submitted,
Herbert McIntire

Charge To The Juniors

As we, the Class of 1951, leave Charlton High School, we wish to give the under classmen the following advise:

First, Remember that since you will be the oldest group in the building, it is your duty to set a good example for all your underclassmen.

Second, Help to make your school a success by taking active part in all activities.

Third, Remember that your teachers are your guides, helpers and friends and that, if you do your best, they will help you to get the most out of school.

As president of the Senior Class, I take great pleasure in presenting this key of responsibility to the president of the Junior Class, Robert Gale, and in wishing this class good luck.

Phil Stevens,
Senior

Welcome Address

As president of the class of 1951, I am pleased to extend a cordial welcome to all parents, friends, faculty members and underclassmen to our Class Day Exercises.

Now, as we are nearing an end in our high school days, we realize that our lives are richer and better because of the opportunities that we have enjoyed during the past four years.

Phil Stevens,
Senior

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE CLASS OF 1951

We, the class of 1951, realizing that our school days are coming to an end, wish to hereby proclaim this to be our last will and testament.

I, Joan Bassett, leave my ability to sleep in classes to Maurice Thibaudeau.

I, Thelma Brackett, leave my height to Carol Butler.

I, Wayne Farr, leave my driving ability to Miss Putnam.

I, Daniel Foskett, leave my ability to receive A's to Leo White.

I, Paul Granger, leave my electric razor to Mr. Berube.

I, Owen Keenan, leave my love for Polish Polkas to Joe Duggan.

I, Walter Lojko, leave my ability to run bases to Red Gillespie.

I, Beatrice Mann, leave my red hair to Mary Bassett.

I, Herbert McIntire, leave my ability to get A in English to Robert Gale.

I, Ellsworth McCloud, leave to Miss Themistocles peace and contentment.

I, William Mortell, leave my ability to blush to Joan Cushing.

I, Joyce Morang, leave my ability to talk incessantly to Gloria Blauvelt.

I, Martin Peterson, leave my talkativeness to Marjorie Robbins.

I, Vivian Poulin, leave my ability to talk French to Richard Boris.

I, Robert Rice, leave my Ford to Norman Dugas.

I, Helen Rosbury, leave my even temper to Madeline Morang.

I, Barbara Stevens, leave my ambition to Olive Thompson.

I, Eleanor Stevens, leave my quietness to Jean McKissick.

I, Philp Stevens, leave my position as the Senior Romeo to Robert Langlois.

I, Elizabeth Sahlin, leave my studiousness to Albert McKinstry.

I, Francis Thibaudeau, leave my wavy hair to Robert Russell.

I, Henry White, leave my ability to sing to Ira Hammond.

I, Wesley Wolfendon, leave my good conduct to Joseph McCarty.

To the Juniors, we leave our textbooks and our seats, with a word of advice: keep them clean as well as we did.

To the Sophomores we leave perseverance and patience.

To the Freshmen we leave the ability to win all the magazine contests.

To our teachers we leave, at least, we hope we leave a fond memory of the mischievous spirit for which we were noted, and we thank them for their patience with us.

This was written all in fun
No harm was meant to anyone.

Joyce Morang,
Senior

CLASS SONG

Tune: Beautiful Brown Eyes

Words by

Beatrice Mann

Yes, we have much to be proud of,

Dear Old Charlton High.

Memories will always be with us,

To everyone we say Good-Bye.

Now that our school days have ended,

We'll travel on our way.

We hope that the classes behind us,

Will follow in our footsteps some day.

Chorus:

Beautiful, Beautiful, school days,

We must leave you now.

The future days maybe trying,

But we'll carry on some how.

Good Citizens Are Made, Not Born

As we near another Graduation, we must realize that a new group of citizens are going out to face the problems of this world. They must learn to make decisions which will be of the greatest importance.

One of the strongest bulwarks against communism is a knowledge of democracy and how it operates. There is a post-war trend to build the kind of citizens that make a strong democracy. Hitler realized the importance of youth to the national welfare. He taught the German youth in the Nazi philosophy. What Hitler did for wrong purposes, the United States, through the slower democratic processes, is now beginning to do for right ends.

One project in citizenship already adopted was described at the recent citizenship conference. In Gladewater, Texas, a town of 8,000, where the schools of the community promoted a "democracy week," Sunday was go-to-church day. More than six-thousand turned out in response to the campaign. Monday was Brotherhood Day, with Jews, Protestants, and Roman Catholics participating in joint services. The week wound up with high school students having a whirl at "running the town," after school elections of a "mayor" and other officials.

In Milwaukee, Wisconsin, the Eugene Fields School, eighth grade, undertook the study of city services as a project for the year. Students visited city plants, studied the political setup, made a survey of the city park system, encouraged all schools to "adopt" a city park and keep it clean, and finally ended with a dinner to which were invited twenty-two of the city officials, whom the students had interviewed. All accepted, and the city council, in high enthusiasm, adopted a resolution congratulating the school on the success of this civic-minded undertaking.

All of these projects and studies indicated the aroused awareness of the importance of building good citizenship, of building a strong nation in which democracy is not only an ideal, but specific, firsthand knowledge of a form of government.

In Charlton, we also have democracy at work. The clubs and other activities described in this book, show the participation of a living democracy in Charlton High School. I am certain that the United States will see the fruit of this training, when the graduating seniors start to perform their duties as good citizens in a democracy.

Teenage Drivers

In the congress at the present time, there is a bill to stop sixteen year-olds from receiving drivers' licenses. There has been a great deal of controversy about such a bill. In many magazines now, you are likely to find full page ads: "Do you want your child to commit teenacide?"

The main arguments for the bill are the numerous accidents in which teenagers are involved, and the rate at which many pupils drive.

Many of the accidents in which teenagers are involved, are not their fault. However you can read in many papers a headline something like: "Several Injured in Teenage Crack-up".

But look down the article a little way. Two to one you'll find some older person caused the accident. The trouble is, that most people don't read all the article, just the headlines. So naturally when a bill such as this comes up, people say, "Pass it, by all means!"

As I said, look at the headlines on the front page, and you'll find something about a teenage accident. But turn to the middle of the paper, and you're apt to find any number of arrests for drunken driving, reckless driving, or driving so as to endanger lives. The majority of the names that are listed are those who have been driving a great deal longer than most of us teenagers. Yet you don't see those listed in front page headlines. Why is it that adults insist on publicizing teenage accidents?

Everyday there are hundreds of teenagers that drive their cars to school, not only to our school, but to most of the schools. Do you know when you hear about them? Not until they're involved in some kind of automobile accident.

The other reason I mentioned is speed. Surely we all like to go fast, but we shouldn't overdo it. About the only way we can all overcome this is by putting governors on the cars, say at about forty miles per hour.

About the only way to keep this bill from being passed, as far as I can see, is to cut down on the accident rate, in this state anyway. Those of us who have our "license to operate" know what fun it is to be able to "take off" and not have to wait for someone to take us. Also how a car comes in so handy. Now let's not spoil it for all our friends who want to get their licenses, so let's take driving easier than we have.

The MacArthur Controversy

Who is right? Was Truman right in "firing" MacArthur? Did MacArthur advocate a policy dangerous to the interests of the United States?

We should believe that there are two sides to every story, and we should hear both sides of any argument before we make up our minds as to who was right and who was wrong. If President Truman were right, and General MacArthur is a man who was incapable of following the orders given by the Administration then why was he placed in the position of Commander of the U.N. forces in the beginning? Surely a man cannot be a brilliant Commander for a long period as MacArthur has and then deserve to be called a war-monger by countries proclaiming friendship to our country, or to be "fired" from his command by our own president.

If MacArthur were right as several other leading officers in Korea also feel that it is necessary to extend the campaign into Asia, then the Administration must be at fault. Can this country afford to let its future rest in the hands of an individual who makes such a colossal blunder as to remove from command a General who might have been the instrument of bringing the Korean War to a successful and speedy end? Much remains to be said on the subject, but it appears that General MacArthur has the backing of this country, and anyone who heard his dramatic speech closing his military career could not help respecting and admiring this grand soldier of ours.

Leisure Time

Today when industry is progressing so fast, there is more demand for recreation. By recreation we mean the constructive way in which people use their leisure time. You may spend yours by drawing, modeling, or even building boats.

Recreation is very important; as it takes your mind off the strain of the usual routine in office, home, or school. Take for instance, a person who likes to ride horseback or do things around a stable. Someday his hobby may become his career. He may become a trainer or a stable owner.

You should plan your leisure time so that you don't lose any valuable time that could be used constructively. When choosing a hobby, don't pick out something for which you aren't suited. For instance, if you aren't too handy with a hammer and nails, don't select a hobby which would make you use these things because then it would seem more like work than fun. Know what you are capable of doing and then do it. Don't do something which is "over your head". Leisure time is something which can be enjoyed if you do something constructive with it.

Growing Up Socially

In every person there are three divisions into which growth may be classified. These are physical, mental, and social. Everyone can observe easily the progress of physical, and even mental growth. But growing socially is altogether different. There are no tape measures and rulers to gauge the progress made in social growth.

Growing up socially is a task that calls for self-sacrifice and realism. If we don't care about other's feelings and if we do not seek the approval of others, our social maturity will never fully develop. So as you can see, it is a necessary part of life.

There are many ways in which we may tell the difference between social maturity and immaturity. Being too dependent on others, being unable to concentrate on one job or task, being selfish, being unable to plan ahead and make our own decisions are all signs of immaturity.

In almost everybody, some of these signs are present to a certain extent. If we are continually "griping" about small details, have a hard time making decisions about everything, and are a hard person to live with, our social maturity hasn't progressed enough.

If we are a cheerful person, can make our own decisions, can finish things we start, can plan ahead wisely, have a sense of humor, and like to help others, then our chances for success will be greatly improved.

TV versus Homework

Since television has become so popular, many of our educators have protested against this medium. They say that the amount of home study done by students, who have television, has decreased considerably. However, we don't share their views. Perhaps, the amount of study has decreased, but what about the amount of knowledge and the report cards of these students? These factors are what count, not study.

Some very important educators have published facts, concerning home work-every student's gripe that is a waste of student's time and should have no place in the American educational program.

In Chelmsford, England, all homework for school children has been abolished. A professor at the University of Colorado has even recommended that school room examinations be abolished completely.

It is likely that this question will be debated for a long while to come. We believe the best solution is compromise. The teachers should discreetly assign homework.

Is School Worthwhile ?

Is school worthwhile? That question has been asked by many boys and girls and will be asked by many more in the future. Tom answered that question and we shall see how.

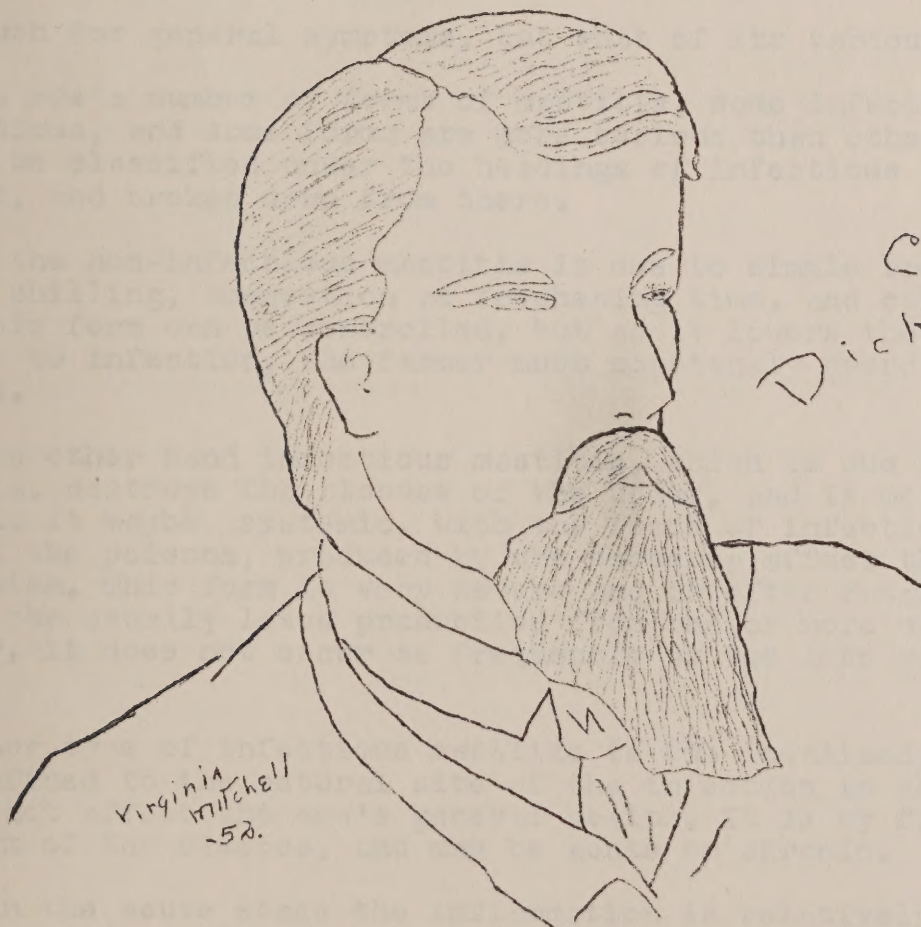

It was nearing the end of the school year, and Tom was thinking of leaving school because he didn't seem to have the money to buy the things he needed. As he was pondering over the thought of leaving school, his friend Bill came along and sat down on the bench with him. When Tom told Bill of his idea of leaving school, Bill said that it would be much better to stay in school because those that leave school usually end by running errands, or working in a dime store. After Bill left, Tom wondered whether to leave school or not. He thought that even though some do not make good, some do, and that he really needed the money. He was thinking that he should leave school anyway when he met

Carl. Carl was another of his friends and when he told Carl what he thought of doing, Carl thoughtfully said that, though some do make good, too many do not. Carl said that very few people who leave school find successful futures, and that they go from one job to another, never satisfied. After hearing this advice from both his friends, Tom thought that maybe he should stay in school after all, for if Carl and Bill were right, he would end with better future success.

So you see that school is worthwhile after all and hundreds of youth and grownups are realizing that every year.

Mastitis
by Philip Stevens, a Senior

Original Oration winner of $120.00 1st Prize at Massachusetts State F. F. A. Contest, Amherst, April 6, 1951

Mastitis, as you probably know, is one of the most destructive infections that can attack a milk producing animal. Statistics show that $\frac{1}{4}$ of the dairy cattle in this country have mastitis in some degree. There is no doubt that many of these cases could have been prevented by good herd management and suitable precautions. In herds where no control measures are employed, a very large percent of the animals may become infected.

But first, what is mastitis, and what does it do?

Generally speaking, mastitis affects the udder of the cow, which becomes reddened, hot, swollen, and painful. The affected quarters contain little milk and that is often watery, stringy, bloody, or thick. Some cows have chills and fevers, eat little or nothing, are weak and unable to stand.

So much for general symptoms, but what of its various forms?

There are a number of forms of mastitis; some infectious, others non-infectious, and some forms are more serious than others. These forms can be classified under the headings of infectious and non-infectious, and broken down from there.

Now, the non-infectious mastitis is due to simple bruises or other injuries, chilling, congestion at freshening time, and other physical damage. This form can be controlled, but as it lowers the udder's resistance to infection, the farmer must constantly guard against its occurrence.

On the other hand infectious mastitis, which is due to the action of bacteria, destroys the tissues of the udder, and is more difficult to control. It maybe systemic, with the focus of infection in the udder, but the poisons, produced by the bacteria affect the cow's entire system. This form is very severe and is often fatal. If the cow recovers, she usually loses production from one or more quarters. Fortunately, it does not occur as frequently as the less severe form does.

Another type of infectious mastitis is the localized, with the damage confined to the actual site of the infection in the udder. This type does not affect the cow's general health. It is by far the most common form of the disease, and may be acute or chronic.

Now in the acute stage the inflammation is relatively great. The disease then ordinarily passes into the chronic stage, with damaged tissue present in various degrees of repair. Occasional acute flare-ups spread the infection to new tissue area. In many cases, however, cows have chronic mastitis without acute symptoms ever having been observed.

While in the initial stage, localized mastitis cannot always be detected without scientific examination. One reason why regular, systematic check-ups of the herd by a veterinarian are so important may be cited; for instance, a cow may harbor a mild, slowly progressing udder infection through a number of lactations before an acute flare-up warns her owner of trouble; yet during that period, the disease, undetected and undisturbed, will have spread rapidly to other members of the herd.

There are two ways to control mastitis; first, by curing the infected animals, after they become infected; and second, by using good preventive herd management.

In preventing mastitis, the following precautions are fundamental

1. Employ healthy milkers, especially if you hand milk. People with sore throats or sores on their hands should never be allowed to milk.
2. Use the strip-cup test before every milking as a routine dairy practice. Before cleansing the udder, collect the first two or three streams from each quarter into a cup through a fine screen, a black cloth or down a slanted black plastic strip. This will show up any flakes or strings if present.
3. Cleanse teats, udder, and flanks with a clean cloth, or one of the new type paper towels, wet with a fresh germicide solution, using only one cloth or one paper towel for each animal and discarding the same after use.
4. Disinfect test cups carefully. Test cups should be dipped into a pail of water, then into a chlorine solution.
5. If you suspect mastitis in your herd, consult your veterinarian and if indicated, have a complete bacterial examination made of milk from infected quarters, to identify the responsible organism.

Now in order to carry out this herd protection program, your general herd management must have certain phases carefully planned and carried out. Strict sanitary precautions must be undertaken, all equipment must be kept clean, the stable must be white-washed or painted with the floors regularly disinfected. There should be plenty of light. Calves should be prevented from sucking one another. A regular mastitis check should be taken at intervals. The feeding program should not force for production with too high protein rations. There should be no narrow gates or doors. Cows should not be rushed through places where udder injury might occur. Stalls should be properly proportioned, none too short, none too long, none too narrow, but each to fit the cow. Milking procedures must be watched carefully. The herd should be segregated into three groups, healthy, suspicious, and actively infected, and milked in that order. There must be no roughness, no excessive stripping, but instead, regular, quiet and complete milking. Milking machines should be operated properly, keeping the vacuum at the maker's recommended degree and the pulsations uniform.

Lederle laboratories, in their "Animal Industry" news letter, quote Plastridge and Stableforth as having reported, the eradication of chronic types of mastitis from herds in which a program of repeated testing, followed by intensive treatment with penicillin, together with barn disinfection is practical.

Don't delay. This disease can cost you a great deal of money and loss of time. Cows today are too valuable to allow the farmer to use slipshod methods.

There is no single prescription, easily used, for mastitis control. A balanced program of attack, constantly followed will do the job.

I hope that I have shown you the seriousness of mastitis, given you some idea of its symptoms, a program of attack, and one possible cure. Won't you please go home and do something about it, if you are not presently conducting a proper control program?

Questions

It is June, the seniors depart?
Are they happy? Are they sad?
Will they leave with a gladdened heart?
Do we care that they are leaving?
Well, yes, I guess we do.
For now it's ours: this burden to bear,
This task to carry through.

They did their job well last year;
Now, it's our job, and we will try
To keep the mark up on its standard
To keep the mark way up on high.
It is our duty their job to complete
Until next year's Seniors in turn will compete.

Music Festival Report

The All-State Music Festival was held this year in Worcester at the Auditorium on February 17th. Those representing the Charlton High School were Stanley Mann, Joan Mushroe, Muriel Davis, Barbara Stevens, Beatrice Mann, Paul Granger, Martin Peterson Jr, and Walter Lojko, accompanied by Miss Florence Putnam. The chorus, conducted by John D. Raymond, sang eleven songs; namely, "Glory", "And the Glory of the Lord", "I Wonder as I Wander", "Cherubim Song", "Echo Song", "Beautiful Saviour", "Go, Song of Mine", "Where in the World", "Tradi Nuka", "Country Style", and "Great is Jehovah". "Where in the World" is being sung by our school Glee Club at Graduation this year. Rehearsals were held at North High School for three days. The first day, while we were registering, we were entertained by music moving pictures. We rehearsed many hours each day. One night, there was a party held at the Sheraton Hotel, with refreshments followed by modern and square dancing. We all had an enjoyable time and hope that others next year will have the same privilege we had.

A Country Girl Graduates

In 1943, Pamela Jones, decided that she would accept an invitation to go to the big city of New York and live with her aunt and uncle as their adopted daughter.

Now Pamela had grown up on a farm, had attended church on Sunday, and was very active in school activities. She was only a Junior, sixteen years old, when she left the small country village and started for life in the metropolis. She was happy at the thought of all the advantages of a large city school but she knew she would miss her parents. Her mother and father saw her off on the 10:30 train.

Pamela enrolled in a New York High School. She made many new friends, among them a fine boy named Dan Perry. They saw each other in school and grew very fond of each other. Pamela even told him about her parents and the small town in which she grew up in.

Finally, the big graduation day of June 10th was just a week away. She would be ready to graduate and look at the world in a new way. She had her cap and gown already and was wishing her parents were able to come to see her when suddenly a bell rang and a messenger handed her a telegram. She had never seen one before. Pamela stood there and didn't know what to say or do. The messenger finally said, "Are you Miss Jones?"

"Why, y-yes sir, but what is this for?"

The messenger coughed and then said, "I see where you're not a city girl; you must come from the country. It is a telegram--T-E-L-E-G-R-A-M. Open it and read it."

She was quite happy and yet she was nervous. She read it very rapidly, and then she read it more slowly, because she didn't believe what the telegram said. She read it over and over. It said:

Cont.....

Dearest Pamela,

Your dad is very sick in the hospital. He fell down yesterday while working in the corn field. He wants to see you before he passes away. Come home as quickly as possible.

Love and prayers,

Mother.

Pamela turned white as a ghost and then she fainted. She remembered it was two whole years since she had seen her dad and how he worked so hard in the past years to give her the best of everything.

She thought of her graduation. Had she built her plans only to see them crumble to ashes?

Faintly she could picture the old gray haired minister, who was preaching in their little sunday school. She remembered that he always said, "Prayer changes things, my dear friends."

Prayer and Pamela hadn't been close lately; but now in this dark hour, when she didn't think anything could help her, she bowed down beside her bed. Her heart was deeply bent in prayer and the words just came. It was not just a group of meaningless words; it was a prayer from Pamela's heart, very sincere and earnest.

This is what she was saying:

"Dear Heavenly Father, up there above, Won't you take care of the one I love, Keep him safe and keep him sound, Wherever he's been and where he's found. This is my prayer and I ask it in Thine ever precious name.

Amen."

Now she felt better. She knew God would take care of her father and do the best he could.

Just as she was about to leave for the trip home, another telegram came and she was not afraid to open it this time, because it would be the answer to her prayers. It was beautiful the way God handled things. The telegram said that her father was much better and would be home from the hospital soon, and they wanted Dan and her to come home after their graduation.

They started out on June 15 after graduation was over.

Pamela and Dan are now married. They keep house in the same place where Pamila's Mom and Dad did when they were first married. Dan is a very good husband, and they are both very happy they met each other. Pamela is also happy that she went to New York, for it was there she met Dan.

So Long Seniors

To the seniors all, we say, "So-Long,"
May your life be a happy song,
As thru the years you play and work,
And never your task to your country shirk.

We wish you all the joy galore,
As you pass through the door
From high school to college,
Or, to pass on to others your knowledge.

You've been most kind to us,
The students of the lower classes,
That's why we wish you joy and cheer,

My D. A. R. Trip

I awoke the morning of March fifteenth with the alarm ringing in my ear. It was the morning I was to go to Boston as a 'D. A. R. (Daughter of American Revolution) Representative. I was to meet Miss Ida Miller, at Howard Johnson's at 7;30.

When I arrived at Howard Johnson's, I met Miss Ida Miller, Mrs. White and three other girls, who were the representatives of Southbridge, Oxford, and Webster. We then started on our way to Boston----- and soon arrived at the Copley Plaza Hotel, where we registered and then listened to some speakers who welcomed us and told us why we were there. Then, a girl's name was pulled out of a hat. This girl received a $100 warbond, but I wasn't the lucky one.

It was about noon hour, and we were getting hungry when finally the buses arrived to take us to the Boston City Club, where we were served our lunch.

After lunch we walked around the corner to the State House, where our pictures were taken. We then proceeded into the State House and were shown the different rooms and some of us even sat in the Governor's chair. He was supposed to have been there, but he was called away at the last minute. As we were relaxing in one of the rooms, our chaperons called for the representative of Oxford and Charlton, and we each received a manual of the General Courts from the representative of Worcester County. We then went into the House of Representatives and watched them vote.

It was then time to go back to the hotel where we met Miss Miller, who told us that it was time to go home. On the way home, we stopped at the new shopping center and bought some souvenirs. At 7:30 P.M. we arrived at Howard Johnson's again, and we each went on our respective ways home, tired out and exhausted, but thankful for what the day had taught us and the fine opportunity that had been ours.

Grade 7A Report

We had two High Honor Roll students for the third term, namely, Alice Eppley, and Ernest Thibaudeau. Other Honor Roll students were as follows: Elaine Benoit, Bradford Sargent, Paul Stevens and Lee Davidson.

Our Glee Club members are Nancy Davis, Gloria Lamoureux, Mary Nedzweckas, Betty Rosbury, Paul Girard, Bradford Sargent, Robert Towers, Norman Dugas, Sheila Casey, Paul Stevens, Elaine Benoit, Clifford Stone, Ernest Thibaudeau, Harvey Ide, Joseph Caprera, Donald Boulanger, Russell Desmarais, and Lee Davidson.

Boys who participated in the class basketball game with the eighth grade were Norman Dugas, Roland Fawthrop, Harvey Ide, Roger Bond, Paul Girard, and Bradford Sargent.

The class officers are president, Gloria Lamoureux; vice-president, Nancy Davis; secretary, Lee Davidson; and treasurer, Norman Dugas. There are thirty-five students in our class with twenty-three boys and twelve girls.

Our class took part in the magazine contest, and we brought in $99.20. We were proud of Bradford Sargent, who was high salesman.

Our class contributed 100 percent to the Red Cross Campaign.

Grade 7B Report

On October 11th we entered Mrs. Healy's room with a class of nineteen. Mr. Ball taught us guidance and current events. In December, we had our Christmas tree, presents, and party.

During the year we lost Fred Swallow, Lawrence Mongeon, and Betty Smith, but Warren McGrath joined us in January. He brought us all the latest City of Worcester ideas.

We've enjoyed the assemblies, such as, Mary Barry with her marimba, Zonn, the hypnotist, and Mr. and Mrs. Constance, who played the Irish Harp.

Albert Ford, Roswell Hilton, and Richard Schofield played in the seventh and eighth grade tournament; for as yet, we are too young to belong to clubs.

Class officers are Doris Boulanger, president; Richard Schofield, vice-president; Gloria Blauvelt, secretary; and Francis Benoit, treasurer.

We have been busy making booklet projects in which books are shaped like the various countries.

Our class also holds membership in the Red Cross.

Participants in the Junior Glee Club Concert were Steve Cupiec, Albert Ford, and Roswell Hilton. Doris Boulanger, Theresa Robidoux and Annette Lamoureux were also chosen to take part but they were unable to do so because rehearsal time conflicted with their Household Arts period. Annette, of course, is a star member of the orchestra, as she is an excellent violinist.

Grade 8 Report

The officers elected for this year are as follows: president, Constance Lavigne; vice-president, Patricia Roussell; treasurer, Madeline Soucy; and secretary, Arlene Brown.

We started this year with forty-four pupils. Unfortunately we lost three pupils, namely, Ann Shangle, William Bushey, and Robert Clark. We are glad to say, however, that we gained four new pupils, Nancy Reiser, Janet Germaine, John Bougourd, and Paul Fredette.

For the third ranking period, William Benoit received Highest Honors; while Fay Carleton, Barbara Cierpick, Dorothy Epply, Wilber Johnson, Constance Lavigne, Elizabeth Piche, Patricia Rousell, and Beverly Sargent were on the Honor Roll.

We are sorry to say that we didn't win the Annual Magazine contest as the seniors came in first, but we tried hard and raised a large amount for the school.

In the exciting seventh and eighth grade basketball game, we are happy to report that we won, as our Philip Allen was high scorer, with twenty points.

We now have a Seventh and Eighth Grade Glee Club, under the supervision of Miss Florence Putnam. We took an active part in the Glee Club Concert, on May 11.

Grade 9A Report

We started the year with thirty-eight pupils, a number which included two new members, Gail Beals and Dorothy Marshall. Later in the year we gained two others, Richard Reiser and Frances Stone. We were sorry to lose four pupils, Calvin Gould, George Hammond, Lorraine St. Laurent, and Gail Beals. This left us a class enrollment of thirty-six.

The freshmen who were active on Girls' Basketball team, coached by Miss Themistocles, were as follows: Mary Bassett, Nancy Norcross, Frances Foskett, and Carol Butler assistant manager.

The freshmen who were active on Boys' Basketball team, coached by Mr. Ball, were: Alva Hunt, Richard Boris, Ralph Mann, Frank Tiberii and Richard Shea.

Frances Foskett and Nancy Norcross were the only members of our class who participated in field-hockey.

We are very proud of Betty Tite and Laurette Benoit who received Highest Honors for the term; other Honor Roll students were Ralph Mann, Patricia Colby, Nancy Davidson and Edward Wozniack.

Freshmen in the one-act Dramatic Club play, "Love Clinic," were Mary Bassett, Patricia Colby, Dorothy Langway, Bernice Johnson, Frances Foskett, Nancy Norcross, Madelyn Cudworth, Loreta Duhamel, and Judy Cummings.

We were truly proud of our freshmen, John Vesey and Carol Butler, who did outstanding work in the Three-act Dramatic Club play, "Little Shepard of Kingdom Come."

Our class gave generously to the Heart Fund, Infantile Paralysis and the Red Cross Drives.

We also worked hard in the Magazine Contest although we were defeated by the Seniors.

We have three freshmen in the Charlton High School Orchestra, namely, John Aramini, George Caprera and Theresa Hall.

Sophomore Report

We, the Sophomore Class of 1951, will end the school year with thirty-five students, the same number with which we started in September.

We were very happy to welcome to our fold Barbara Reiser, Betty Stone, Eunice Goldspring, Earle Beals, and Richard Whettland; while at the same time, we were just as sorry to have to say goodbye, just a few months later, to Doris Mongeon, Richard Whettland, Francis Briere, Richard Tully, and Earle Beals.

Highest Honors this year went to Sylvia Lackstrom, Marjorie Robbins, and Leland Baker. Other pupils on the Regular Honor Roll were Robert Langlois and Stanley Mann.

Sophomores who were in the Annual Dramatic Club Play, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," were Leland Baker, who did outstanding work as the Little Shepherd, and Eleanor Barnes, as Jennie Overstreet; Gayhle Riche, as Lucy Buford; Carol Gard, as Margaret Dean; Marjorie Robbins, as Nellie Hunt; Patricia Knowlton, as Melissy Turner, Rhea Dugas, as Mrs. Dean; Stanley Mann, as Richard Dean.

Our Sophomore Hop this year featured something new, as a big name band, namely, The Rhythm Wreckers, composed of our own class mates, Patricia Knowlton, Grace Phillips, and Stanley Mann. We were very proud of these three, who helped to make this the biggest Hop yet, and helped to bring in eighteen dollars profit for our treasury.

During this year we had one hundred percent in the Junior Red Cross Drive, and gave generously to the Heart and the Infantile Paralysis Funds.

Girls who were active in basketball were Eleanor Barnes, Rhea Dugas, Carol Gard, and Olive Thompson.

The boys who represented us on the Charlton H.S. Varsity Basketball Team were James Fitzgerald, William Gillespie, Stanley Mann, and Robert Langlois. Leland Baker was the assistant manager.

The Sophomore Boys were the class basketball champions, with four victories and no defeats.

We started the year with an enrollment of thirty-one pupils. We were sorry to lose three of our members, namely, Rosalie Luce, Barbara Williams, and Floyd Ferguson.

The class officers chosen for this year were president, Robert Gale; vice-president, Carol Warren; secretary, Elaine Caplette; and treasurer, Muriel Davis.

We Juniors sold candy to benefit our class treasury and to help defray our Junior Prom expenses.

Our annual Junior Prom was held May 4, with Russ Coles' orchestra furnishing the music. The town hall was beautifully decorated in the class colors, blue and yellow, with Dutch design as the theme. Our class flowers, the yellow roses, and a crystal ball, added to the beauty of the hall. Patrons and Patronesses for the Prom were Superintendent and Mrs. Joseph Durgess, Principal and Mrs. H. Lea Mushroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Davis. The Grand March was led by Carol Warren, vice-president and Robert Gale, president.

Honor Roll students at the end of the third ranking period were Dorothy Packard, Joan Mushroe, Muriel Davis, Eleanor Wright, Jean McKissick, and Josephine Porter.

We juniors were successful in taking part in the Red Cross Drive as well as the Magazine Drive.

Respectfully submitted,
Elaine Caplette, Secretary

Senoir Class Finals

We, the class of "51", started our biggest year at Old Charlton High School with twenty-three members.

The class officers chosen for this year were as follows: president, Philip Stevens; vice-president, Paul Granger; secretary, Beatrice Mann; and treasurer, Barbara Stevens.

We sponsored different activities in order to raise the total in our treasury. First, we had two paper drives, one in September and one in April.

This year marked the start of an annual "Senior Supper". This event proved highly successful, but this would have been impossible without the aid and support of our advisor, Mr. Berube, and several of the mothers of the class.

For our Senior play we presented the comedy, "The Whole Town's Talking". The entire class took part. The leading characters were as follows: Paul Granger, as Henry Simmons, and Philip Stevens, as Chester Binney. The supporting cast included Thelma Brackett, Vivian Poulin, Elizabeth Sahlin, Eleanor Stevens, Barbara Stevens, Joyce Morang, Joan Bassett, Daniel Foskett, Ellsworth McCloud, William Mortell, Helen Rosbury, Wesley Wolfenden, Wayne Farr, Herbert McIntire, Henry White, Walter Lojko, Owen Keenan, Robert Rice, Martin Peterson, and Francis Thibaudcau. We made a profit of $102.00 and received the great satisfaction of entertaining everyone who had the privilege of attending.

Senior Class Finals (continued)

During the spring vacation we went to New York for our class trip. The chaperones were Mr. Berube, Mrs. Madaus, Mrs. Fiske, and Mrs. Hammond.

Barbara Stevens represented our school in the annual D. A. R. convention, in Boston.

The class was represented in basketball by Paul Granger, Captain and Philip Stevens. The team was managed by Walter Lojko.

The Senior Class for the third consecutive year has won the annual Magazine Contest.

Respectfully submitted,
Beatrice Mann,
Secretary,

Student Council News

The Charlton High School Council started a big year last October. The officers elected for the season were as follows: Wayne Farr, president; Philip Stevens, vice-president; Paul Granger, secretary; and Thelma Brackett, treasurer.

The Home Room representatives this year are: 7A, Gloria Lamoreaux; 7B, Doris Boulanger; 8, Constance Lavigne; 9A, Betty Tite; 9B, Beverly Mitchell; 10, Stanley Mann; 11, Robert Gale; and 12, Philip Stevens.

The club representatives are: Dramatic Club, Beatrice Mann; Sewing Club, Lorraine Plante; Good Writers, Jean McKissick; Photography, Walter Lojko; Athletic, Vivian Poulin; Glee Club, Paul Granger; F.F.A., Richard Lucas; Lunch Counter, Joan Bassett; Basketball Manager, Walter Lojko; and Baseball Manager, Ellsworth McCloud.

The Council again sold school bookcovers which have the school seal and school colors on them this year.

The Council also sponsored the Curtis Magazine Plan again. It was a big success and gained for the Council money for these objectives: Athletic equipment, school films, and assemblies.

The Student Council Ticket Plan this year was very attractive one, featuring admission to all school functions at a saving of $2.90.

A Care Package of food was sent by the Student Council to a needy family in Holland.

The Student Council also sponsored the following school assemblies: Mary Barry, marimba; Zonn, hypnotist; Walter Leathe; lecturer, Russell Curry, etiquette lecturer; and the Hayden

Irish Harp Duo.

Respectfully submitted,
Paul Granger, Secretary.

Dramatic Club

In September, 1950, forty two pupils reported to Mrs. Fiske, in room 10, for the first meeting of the Dramatic Club. This is the largest Dramatic Club enrollment in the history of our school. Since room 10 has only thirty-five seats, some of the club members practiced each week in Room 9 with Miss Themistocles, who assisted Mrs. Fiske.

The active club members for this season were as follows: Frances Foskett, Carol Butler, Loretta Duhamel, Dorothy Langway, Judy Cummings, Madeline Morang, Mary Bassett, Leland Baker, Marjorie Robbins, Stanley Mann, Robert Langlois, Gladys Garrepy, Carol Gard, Patricia Knowlton, Gahyle Rich, Trace Phillips, Robert Gale, Madeline Cudworth, Marlene Mitchell, Eleanor Wright, Lois Cummings, Ardith Dobson, Daniel Foskett, Joyce Morang, Joan Bassett, Martin Peterson, Beatrice Mann, Thelma Brackett, Helen Rosbury, Paul Granger, Patricia Colby, Bernice Johnson, and Therese Hall.

The officers of Our Dramatic Club included Beatrice Mann, President; Robert Gale, Vice-president; and Joan Bassett, secretary.

This year our annual three-act play was a comedy-drama entitled "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." The cast included Leland Baker, as Little Shepherd, ably supported by, Gahyle Rich, Robert Gale, Rhea Dugas, Carol Gard, Madeline Morang, Patricia Knowlton, Stanley Mann, Carol Butler, John Vesey, Eleanor Barnes, Daniel Foskett, and Marjorie Robbins.

"The Love Clinic", a one act comedy, was produced in May. The cast included Patricia Colby, Madeline Cudworth, Ardith Dobson, Barbara Rieser, Frances Foskett, Judy Cummings, Mary Bassett, Dorothy Langway, Loretta Duhamel, Nancy Norcross, Eleanor Wright, and Bernice Johnson.

"Christmas for the Duchess" was presented at our Christmas Assembly. The cast included the following: Gayle Rich, Eleanor Barnes, Gladys Garrepy, John Vesey, Robert Gale, Carol Gard, Patricia Knowlton, Stanley Mann, Leland Baker, Marjorie Robbins, Rhea Dugas, Grace Phillips, Lois Cummings, Eleanor Wright, Ardith Dobson, Marlene Mitchell, and Doris Mongeon.

Members of our one-act play cast, "Buried Treasure" are: Lois Cummings, Theresa Hall, Mary Ellen Gillespie, Marlene Mitchell, Gladys Garrepy, Grace Phillips, and Lorraine Poulin.

During this past year, all members of our club have participated in at least one public production. Those not in three act play "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" were in one of the short plays: "Christmas for the Duchess", "Love Clinic", or "Buried Treasure".

We feel that we have had an enjoyable and profitable year under able supervision of Mrs. Mabel Fiske, our Club director, who coached our three-act drama "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" and also the one-act plays "Buried Treasure" and "Love Clinic"; assisted by Miss Themistocles and Miss Ernestine Lomire.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan Bassett,
Secretary.

Boys' Voice Class Report

This year, the Boys' Voice Class consisted of seven members all seniors namely, Walter Lojko, Herbert McIntire, Martin Peterson, Wesley Wolfenden, William Mortell, Paul Granger, and Daniel Foskett.

We meet Tuesday morning in the new cafeteria. Here, under the guidance of Miss Florence Putnam, we rehearse songs for assemblies, Glee Club Concert, and Graduation.

We are very proud, indeed, to have Walter Lojko accepted as a member of the Worcester Music Festival Chorus.

Respectfully submitted,
Daniel Foskett

Girls' Voice Class

This year the Girls' Voice Class has fifty-two members, a number which includes six seniors, eighteen juniors, fourteen sophomores and fourteen freshmen. The group was divided into four classes and met in the Cafeteria on Monday of each week.

The group this year has participated in the Columbus Day, Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and Memorial Day Assemblies. The class also sang appropriate songs for the Dramatic Club Play Productions at the Masonic Home, at Children's rehearsal and at the final performance, at Dexter Hall, March 30, 1951.

At the Glee Club Concert this year, the Girls' Voice Class sang three selections. This group also participated in the Graduation music.

Respectfully submitted,
Joyce Morang,
Secretary.

Orchestra Report

There are twelve members in the Charlton High School orchestra this year. They are as follows: Constance Lavigne and Annette Lameroux, who play the violins; Rhea Dugas, who plays the bells; Josephine Hiscox, who plays the accordion; Grace Phillips and Stanley Mann, who play the C melody saxophone; Roger Vallee, who plays the E flat alto saxophone; John Aramini and George Caprera, who play the clarinet; Richard Boris, who plays the trombone; and Muriel Davis and Joan Mushroe, who play the piano.

The orchestra has played at the following events; Open House at Fiskdale New Junior High School, Dramatic Club Play, Glee Club Concert, Memorial Day Assembly, Class Day, and Graduation.

The group practices every Tuesday during the sixth period, and pupils all look forward to this time. We are pleased to have so many new members in our orchestra group and feel sure that, because of the great interest in weekly music lessons, we will have an even larger orchestra in the years to come.

Respectfully submitted,
Rhea Dugas, Secretary.

Glee Club Notes

This year eight members of our Glee Club were highly honored by being accepted for the Annual State Festival Chorus, in Worcester Municipal Auditorium, held in February. These honored pupils were Barbara Stevens, Beatrice Mann, Muriel Davis, Joan Mushroe, Paul Granger, Walter Lojko, Martin Peterson Jr., and Stanley Mann. This chorus consisted of four hundred voices and an orchestra of over a hundred.

The Charlton Glee Club sponsored the Annual "Music Night" Program, presenting two groups of songs, which were highly enjoyed by a large audience.

The Glee Club also sang two special numbers at our Charlton Graduation exercises.

Respectfully submitted,
Martin G. Peterson, Jr.
Secretary-Treasurer

The Charlton Chapter
F.F.A. Report

At one of our December meetings, the full meeting was voted to be held evenings instead of during the activity periods.

On January 4, 1951, Hudson Chapter came down to initiate to the Green Hand Degree the following boys: Gordon Baker, Richard Barnes, Lowell Baylies, Francis Cierpich, Fred Cleveland, Forrest McKinstry, Richard Rieser, Frederick Stevens. The following boys were initiated to the Chapter Farmer Degree: Albert McKinstry, Ira Hammond, Robert Russell, Philip Stevens, Richard Lucas, Alvin Stone, Warren Reynolds, Franklin White, and Henry White.

On January 1, 1951 Frederick Stevens purchased from the Norfolk Prison Colony a registered purebred Holstein calf.

The Chapter decided to hold a Parent and Son Banquet on April 28, 1951. Work on menu and program was officially started by chairman, Robert Russell.

The chapter members are purchasing official F.F.A. Jackets and degree pins.

On February 17, 1951 all officers and eleven other members attended officers' training school at the University of Massachusetts.

The chapter showed and sold E. K. F. Stoney Hill Burt at the Eastern Yorkshire Spring show and Sale. He was sold to Mr. F. Brown of Germantown, New York for $106.00. Bob Maynard lent us his truck. The chapter is testing milk for Robert Maynard, for Masonic Home, and for Forrest McKinstry.

On the sixth of April at the Mass. Assoc. F.F.A. Public speaking contest, Philip Stevens won first place out of seven winners from the Mass. District contest. The prize was $120.00. Philip will make a recording, which will be broadcast over W.T.A.G. on the Farm Round Program. He will represent the Mass. Assoc. F.F.A. at the Eastern States Exposition in the North East Regional Contest, in September.

The Pig Club has $67.50. In the chapter saving account we have $99.69. In the chapter's working fund we have $44.48.

Philip Stevens has helped his father start Artificial insemination and has joined the local Soil Conservation Service.

Francis Ciernich, Treasurer
E. M. Lawrence, Adviser

Athletic Club

The officers of the Athletic Club are as follows: president, Vivian Poulin; vice president, Frank Tiberli; secretary-treasurer, Barbara Hilton.

For this season, we have chosen sports to be played on our Athletic Field. Every class will be allowed to participate in these field events.

Some of the events will be high jumps, broad jumps, and different throws.

There will be four men's relays and 100 yard dashes for boys.

The girls will also be able to participate in all these events.

The pupils in the club have finished drawing up the Constitution.

With the help of our pupils and the coaching of Mr. Ball, we are looking forward to a very successful season in sports events.

Respectfully submitted,
Barbara Hilton,
Secretary

Junior Red Cross Report

During the past year, guided by Mrs. Sarah Madaus, our Junior Red Cross group has collected books, tumblers, facecloths, scrapbooks, etc. from the students. These articles were sent to the Chapter house, where they were distributed to the various veterans' hospitals. Besides all this, the students contributed money to the Junior Red Cross, during the annual fund campaign.

The delegates, for this year, were Leland Baker of the Sophomore Class and Daniel Foskett of the Senior Class, who have attended the district meetings in Worcester each month. We hope that next year Junior Red Cross will be represented in the Student Council meetings.

Respectfully submitted,
Daniel Foskett,
Secretary

Photography Club

We of the photography club have not been able to accomplish as much as we would have liked to this year.

Our club is divided into groups. Each group has a complete set for developing films. We hope to have a more successful club next year.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan Mushroe,
Secretary

Good Writers' Club

The officers of the Good Writers' Club this year were as follows: president, Jean McKissick; vice-president, Shirley Casey; secretary, Joan Sullivan; and treasurer, Josephine Porter.

Almost all of the members of the Good Writers' Club of Charlton High School have received a certificate for good writing. The members of the club included: Shirley Casey, Jean McKissick, Joan Sullivan, Josephine Porter, Priscilla Stevens, Laurette Benoit, Patricia Clark, Ruth Pitts, Betty Tite, Mildred Wozniak, Joan Zollo, Gloria Duquette, Dorothy Hammond, and Iris Towers.

All of the members have tried very hard to improve their writing, and, well supervised by Mrs. Hammond, they have succeeded in becoming much better writers than they were.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan Sullivan,
Secretary

Sewing Club

The Sewing Club is now organized by Mrs. Fleming, who is our fourth Home Economics and Sewing Club teacher for this year. We were guided first by Mrs. Hoey; second by Mrs. Vetterling; and third by Mrs. Miller.

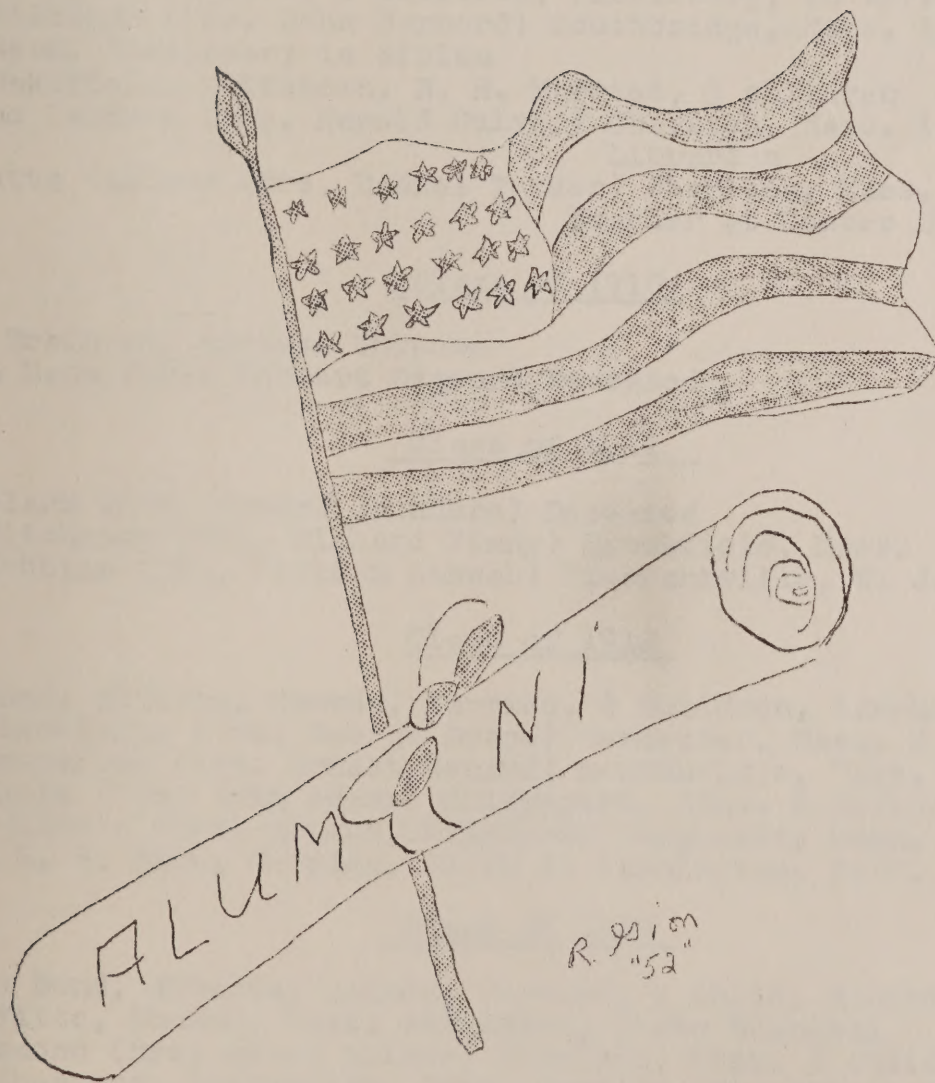

Members of the Sewing Club for the year of 1950 and 1951 were as follows: Alice Austin, Elaine Burns, Nancy Davidson, Josephine Hiscox, Marion Lojko, Lorraine Plante, Carol Pike, Rose Marie Porter, Barbara Reiser, Janet Robideaux, Alice St. George, Janet Stone, Olive Thompson and Mae Williams.

Some of the different articles made this year were suits, dresses, blouses, pajamas, and skirts.

There will be a Home Economic Exhibition May 11th in conjunction with Vocational Agriculture Department and all Music Groups. The sewing class will exhibit articles made by the members. They will also sell cakes and other home-cooked food. This exhibition will be held in the Dexter Memorial Hall, at 8 o'clock.

The officers of the Sewing Club were as follows: president, Lorraine Plante; vice-president, Elaine Burns; secretary, Elaine Burns.

Respectfully submitted,
Elaine Burns,
Secretary

Girls' Sports

Our basketball season ended fairly successfully with Miss Vera Themistocles as coach, Joan Bassett as manager, and Carol Butler as assistant manager. We played the teams from Oxford and Webster

Last fall the girls had an opportunity to play Field Hockey for the first time in the history of our school.

Intramural games were played between classes with the Juniors topping all other classes.

Students who went out for basketball this season were Doris Boulanger, Marion Griswold, Jean McKissick, Olive Thompson, Joan Sullivan, Barbara Hilton, Sylvia Iannicherri, Arlene Brown, Cynthia Jones, Carol Butler, Beverly Sargent, Mildred Wozniak, Gayle Riche, Frances Foskett, Lois Cummings, Carol Warren, Rhea Dugas, Carol Gard, Nancy Norcross, Nancy Shea, Eleanor Barnes, Thelma Brackett, Joan Zollo, Mary Bassett, Gail Beals, Theresa Hall, Mary Gillispie, Pat Colby, Eleanor Wright, Gloria Tower, Mary Lou Pike, Joan Mushroe, and Muriel Davis. The members of the first team included Jean McKissick, Barbara Hilton, Rhea Dugas, Carol Gard, Thelma Brackett, Carol Warren, and Joan Sullivan.

We hope to be as successful in girls' softball as we have been in basketball.

Respectfully submitted,
Thelma Brackett

And
Barbara Hilton

Boys' Sports

The Charlton Basketball Cagers were unsuccessful in most of the games played this season, as we were handicapped by the fact that nearly all the first string players were from last year's team. However, there were some very interesting games.

As there was a fairly good turnout for baseball practice, we are looking forward to a good season.

The baseball schedule for 1951 is as follows:

Tuesdays
May 1 Charlton at Oxford
May 8 Sutton at Charlton
May 15 Charlton at Leicester
May 28 Brookfield at Charlton
May 22 N. Brookfield at Charlton

Fridays
May 4 Leicester at Charlton
May 11 Charlton at Sutton
May 18 Oxford at Charlton
May 25 Charlton at Rutland
June 1 Charlton at W. Boyalston

Respectfully submitted,

Walter Lojko
